

Our Town

By Peggy Blanchard

Announcement of the government prune purchase program relieved considerable anxiety among our growers, was the comment voiced by Charles J. Cali, County Farm Bureau President.

The California Farm Bureau Federation bent every effort with oral testimony and briefs, submitted by Matt Triggs, deciduous fruit commodity specialist, to bring about a favorable and speedy decision from the government authorizing the Commodity Credit Corporation to buy the estimated surplus dried fruits.

"The Prune Program Committee, leading growers and others, along with our C.F.B.F., deserve high praise for their fine work, whose fruits were borne at a time when the spirits of the industry were at its lowest," Cali concluded.

Several hundred pounds of angry beef-steak on the hoof provided some excitement around the Campbell Co-Operative Dryer at supper time Tuesday. A young farmer brought his prize-looking bull to town to weigh the critter on the dryer scales and everything went fine until the bull had to be reloaded into the trailer. He balked, stalled, snorted and finally led his master around the corner by his (the bull's) nose. The two of them eventually disappeared down Railroad avenue. Being a sissy, and red haired, I didn't venture near enough to ask the owner his name but admired his handling of the situation from a safe distance.

By now the dryers are glowing night and day and you can see stacks of prune trays awaiting turns in the tunnels, just by walking down First street or up through Central. Alas that the prune has lost its glamour—wonder if the development of the all-purpose vitamin capsule has anything to do with it? You hear and see a lot about the marvel of the vitamin pill (my doctor doesn't agree that they are so marvelous) but seldom notice anyone expounding the virtue of the prune. Oh, fickle public that we are, the Hucksters must have been right—we do like to be "sold" on what's good for us.

Today, Marion Peake is due to arrive in London, for her first sight of the Thames, the Tower, Buckingham, and maybe, Baker street—home of Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson. Marion has been visiting in Scotland and Ireland since she flew across from Montreal last month. She reports a wonderful time, has been entertained, feted, shown the sights and fairly spoiled, she writes her mother, Mrs. Florine B. Peake, by ever so many delightful people. She finds nearly everyone willing and ready to talk politics, international policy and economics at the drop of a hat, subjects that are very much in fashion in Europe, one hears.

Attorney Morton, Philanthropist

Chamber of Commerce in Stormy Session Eliminates An Old Debt

In a move calculated to smooth out dissent and differences of opinion within the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, Attorney Richard W. Morton cancelled his accounts with the Chamber by marking paid his bill of two years standing.

The indebtedness was incurred by the retaining of Mr. Morton as attorney for the Chamber when the members voted to sponsor a movement for the incorporation of the town. Amount of the bill was about $775. After a discussion on membership, and the soliciting of new members, with a report from Bill Means, chairman of the membership committee, it was brought out that many commercial establishments were opposed to paying for past commitments of the Chamber. Morton's bill seemed to be the only "fly in the ointment" towards having old mem-

Schools Will Reopen Sept. 20 Half-Sessions In Prospect For Three Grammar Schools

Back-to-school days began to shape up in earnest for Campbell boys and girls this week with official announcement of the opening date—Sept. 20.

That leaves three and a half weeks before the starting bell sounds the knell of summer fun and launches the excitement of new classes, new playmates—and new teachers. More than 40 new teachers will be on duty in local schools to conduct the classes in "largest ever" enrollment.

Good news for pupils of the elementary grades—though not so happy for their parents—is that many of the grammar school classes will operate on a half-day basis. William C. Henley, superintendent, issued a statement Tuesday that due to extreme overcrowding the half-day sessions will be necessary again this fall. Families with children in attendance

Woman's Place Still At Home, Professor Tells BPW Club

Woman's first and most important place is still in the home, Professor Claude N. Settles told members of Campbell Business and Professional Women's club Wednesday evening.

But, he added, the growing insecurity of marriage is taking more and more women out into business and industry. More than a quarter of U. S. employees are women and they have been admitted to 451 occupations. He complemented the club for its efforts to obtain equal rights and equal pay for women.

Professor Settles is Associate in the Department of Sociology at San Jose State College. His spe-

A base price of 7 cents a pound for prunes was set early this week by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as the Government announced plans to purchase approximately 200,000 tons of dried fruit.

Freeholders and Public Get Together On New County Charter Provisions

Valuable suggestions for the proposed charter for Santa Clara County have resulted from the current series of public meetings.

At well-attended meetings Aug. 16 and 25, the Freeholders listened to ideas of the voting public as they discussed sections of the charter dealing with health, recreation, finance, civil service and law enforcement.

A fourth public meeting will be called by Chairman Fred A.

Laurance J. Hill, principal of Campbell Union High School, and superintendent of the High School district, was this week named as head of the Campbell district for selective service registration.

Registration for the youth of the area will begin at 8 a.m. Monday, August 30 in the library of the high school. Registrations will be made daily from 8 in the morning until five at night including the noon hour. Mr. Hill expects approximately 3200 men will be registered in the 17-day period.

A staff of five people will be assigned to the task, with additional help from members of the Campbell Kiwanis club who have volunteered their services.

In a formal proclamation Governor Earl Warren asked the officials of the Senior High School system and the Selective Service local boards to conduct the registration. Under this plan, Selective Service local boards are to establish places of registration in their offices and the Senior High system is asked to set up a place of registration in each Senior High School. High School principals have been asked to assume direct responsibility for the conduct of the registration in their own schools.

In his message to High School principals, Governor Warren's proclamation says:

How About A Challenge?

California's famous pears will be featured in many of the 40 county exhibits during the California State Fair in Sacramento September 2 through 12, and they are delicious, according to pretty Joan Harlow of Sacramento. She says those picked near her own city are the "best in the world." Of course Joan is prejudiced but judges will decide during the Fair when $45,000 in premium awards will be split among successful exhibitors of the state's diversified agricultural products.

Repeating their wedding vows at an afternoon ceremony Sunday in the Church of the Wayfarer at Carmel-by-the-Sea, Miss Betty Jeanne Patnoe and Emerson Maris Arends were united in marriage by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, Methodist minister.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Patnoe of San Jose and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Arends Sr. of Campbell and San Jose.

White chrysantheums and lighted white tapers decked the church for the double ring ceremony.

A dressy suit of white sharkskin, and a pink halo hat trimmed with pink tulle were chosen by the bride for her wedding and she carried a bridal bouquet of pink carnations centered by a white orchid.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. William Grace (Barbara Johnston) wore a pale blue suit with white accents and a white corsage.

The bridegroom and his brother James B. Arends Jr., who was his best man, wore suits of beige gabardine. Mrs. Patnoe wore a gown of mulberry color and white accessories and Mrs. Arends Sr. chose aquamarine and black accessories for the occasion. Both mothers had white corsages.

Emerson was graduated by San Jose State College in June, receiving an A.B. degree with honors in Speech. During his senior year, he was president of the student body at State, where he was active in the San Jose Players, Spartan Knights, Tau Delta Phi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

His bride was graduated by Jose State College in June, receiving a student at State College. She was an editor of the college yearbook for 1948 and is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi and Black Masque on the campus and is also affiliated with the Order of Rainbow for Girls.

Country Woman's Clubhouse Readied For Rush of Many Autumn Events

Country Woman's clubhouse will be all set for the fall rush of events by the end of this week.

For several days, all meetings regularly scheduled in the clubhouse, Campbell avenue at First street, have been relocated so that cleaning, floor sanding and redecoration of the ladies' lounge could be completed.

Floor sanders were refinishing the hardwood floor of the auditorium Tuesday.

Mrs. L. J. Benson heads the house committee under whose direction the "fall cleaning" was carried on this week. Her assistants are Mrs. Ross Trowbridge, Mrs. C. E. Williams, Mrs. E. C. Price and Mrs. D. B. Pressler.

Mrs. Eva Grattan is in charge of rentals of the popular clubhouse, succeeding Mrs. Carl Field who served as renting chairman for several years.

Country Woman's club itself schedules a festive luncheon Sept. 27 to open its autumn season of semi-monthly meetings. Club directors, headed by Mrs. F. A. Jacobson, president, and Mrs. Vernon Suess, program chairman, are listed as hostesses for the occasion.

Additional Campbell organizations who regularly meet in the Country Woman's club building are Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, American Legion Auxiliary to Post 596, Garden Club, Church of Christ, the Two-Stepers—a dancing club that meets the first Saturday evening of each month—and the School of Music at which some 50 of Campbell's young musicians assemble for instrumental classes.

Between times, the clubhouse serves as the locale of weddings, receptions, dances, dinners and special meetings that all add up to a lot of gaiety on the Campbell scene.

Why most telephone trouble stops before it starts

1. Imagine a vacuum cleaner in a central office... actually it's one of our important tools. For keeping equipment working perfectly means keeping equipment perfectly clean. The vacuum sucks up the specks of dust that might make a tiny electrical contact fail... just when you need it. And we stop trouble other ways, too.

2. While you sleep this new electronic tester is at work... combing over circuits to see if it can spot a "leak" in the office or out on the lines. For even the best-insulated cables now and then allow moisture from rain or fog to creep in. By recording current loss on the lines, the tester checks loss of efficiency that might mean future trouble.

3. "Trouble detectives" are at work constantly, inspecting cables and lines and following up the clues given them by this testing equipment. These are just a few examples of our preventive maintenance... part of our job of making your telephone service dependable, ready to go to work for you when you need it... as often as you need it.

4. When you make a telephone call you hire a mighty valuable servant. And that servant is more useful than ever before. For the number of telephones on the Coast has almost doubled in the past ten years. We're hard at it to provide more and better service for more people. And each new telephone added makes your telephone that much more valuable.

Milton avenue, will play a special pipe organ solo as a part of the 11 o'clock worship service next Sunday morning at the Methodist Church. Rev. Lawrence J. Osborne will preach the sermon, and Mrs. Edith H. Van Rossem will play the organ for the hymns, prelude, offertory and postlude.

Orchard City Grange 333 and its guests were entertained after a meeting Tuesday evening at a peach feed given by Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn S. Keesling in the banquet room of IOOF hall.

The traditional peach feast is an annual affair presented by Mr. Keesling, who has won many awards and blue ribbons with fruit from his orchard.

Among the guests for the occasion were Frank Carey, master of Almaden Grange, and Mrs. Carey; Dwight Sheffer, master of Sunnyvale Grange; Terry Rowe, master of Mt. Hamilton Grange; and Mrs. Ida Scow, master of San Jose Grange; Mrs. S. W. Stevens of New Milford, Pa., and members of neighboring Granges.

Herbert M. Shadle presided at a brief business meeting and L. J. Hill of the education committee spoke on the draft registration to take place in the High School next week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Rutherford sang two duets, "Rose of Tralee" and "Juanita."

From A Reader

To the Blanchards:
I have enjoyed your work in the Campbell Press and thank your kindness in continuing to send it, after I had ordered it stopped. That was before incorporation was defeated. Now that the Congregational Church has called for its pastor, a man of outstanding learning and ability, I am sending you $2.50 for another year's subscription.

I am also planning to concentrate all my activities in Santa Clara County in the town of Campbell, and if not too often and too strongly repulsed will increase my work there.

I have not been in Campbell since Old Settlers' Day, 1947. Too many calls elsewhere, but my interest has been continued through your very able management of the Campbell Press.

I was a resident near Campbell for the time between November, 1878, and my removal from Santa Clara County in 1898. But I was a property owner near the corner of Hamilton and Willowbrae avenue, at "Park Place," until its sale in 1938, only 10 years ago, and for a space of almost 60 years. I doubt if the book of Mr. T. A. Cutting will contain my name, but the fact is that I am a pre-Camp-bellite, and by a number of years, its antecedent.

My first visit to the present locality of Campbell, was in an attempt to reach my father's threshing machine outfit at McCoy avenue, without going in a long "end-run" of four or five miles. So I went into a recently cut hayfield and criss crossed over the channel of the new channel of the Los Gatos Creek, and went through the Campbell Ranch barnyard, and got across by opening and closing 13 gates.

When the narrow gauge railroad diagonaled across the Campbell Ranch and a townsite was laid out, I designed the first residence in the new town for Dr. Cooper, and designed the Congregational Church (which I also remodeled several years later) and in 1892 designed the brick bank building, now the Farley real estate office. I designed several other residences and was architect for the original Hamilton School, since torn down, and the first San Tomas School, which was made into a residence.

Years later I discovered the unusually brilliant poet, Robert Kington Buel, and for two years was privileged to be his encourager and instructor.

Campbell is not a "town" to be incorporated and segregated, but is an ideal, a blanket covering all the territory between a fringe of towns and the city of San Jose. It cannot afford to cut off its friends like trimming the dough off from around the rim of a pie plate, in my opinion.

Announce Rights For New-Type Wave

Combining their talents and equipment Anamae Pereira and Louise A. Emery are now doing business together at the Anamae salon, corner of Harrison and Hamilton avenues.

Mrs. Pereira closed her beauty shop temporarily when illness forced her to give up an active part in business, and Mrs. Emery, who formerly operated the Yrene Beauty Service, had to move because of an expiring lease.

Mrs. Emery is now operating the Anamae shop and the two women announced this week that they have obtained a franchise on a newly-developed cold-wave permanent. Non-toxic, the new preparation is harmless to skin and hair and actually restores and reconditions dry hair.

New Device Aids Sanitary Processing Of Dried Fruit

A simple device that can provide continuous sanitation in dried fruit processing plants has been developed by Dr. Reese H. Vaughn of the division of food technology of the University of California College of Agriculture in cooperation with representatives of two date growers organizations.

The cleaning apparatus simply consists of a reservoir of a sanitizing solution, such as chlorinated water, through which the plant's conveyor belt is run continuously, and a squeegee that dries the belt as it leaves the solution. To be successful, the rinsing fluid should be changed every two hours, and the squeegee should be demountable for occasional cleaning.

This immersion method for conveyor belts keeps them clean and free from excessive food debris and microorganisms throughout the entire period of operation. It also saves involved clean-up procedures at the end of the operating period.

The continuous cleaning method has been successfully employed with dates and now is being adapted to figs. Dr. Vaughn believes that it can be used in all dried fruit plants.

In 1800, Naval engagements were conducted at distances up to half a mile. At the present time, maximum range is over 20 miles.

Rockettes Lose One, Win Three Games In All-Girl Softball Diamond Matches

Softball as a sport for women has 16 enthusiastic adherents hereabouts, in the Santa Clara Rockettes—a team of Campbell and San Jose girls who have won three and lost one game this summer in competition with other girls teams in the bay area.

Four Campbell girls play on the Rockettes—Alleen Cowdrey, Nadine Smith, Virginia Grattan and Claire Lobrovich. Mary Lindner, formerly of Campbell and nine other San Jose girls make up the balance of the team.

They are Florence Couse, Marie Sanders, Gretchen Wagner, Orril Brown, Ann Accopetone, Gloria Ghiorso, Joan Ereno, Elsie Presta and Frances Boden.

Claire Lobrovich, who played professional women's baseball last year with a Kenosha, Wis., team, and Harry Brown of San Jose coach the Rockettes.

Miss Lobrovich was in spring training at Havana, Cuba, during her career as a professional, and played a series of exhibition games on the East coast and through a season with a mid-West league composed of eight women's teams.

Blue and gold uniforms have been ordered for eight of the 16 players on the Santa Clara team, and the Rockettes hope to find additional sponsors to complete outfitting of the players.

Playing Tuesday evening at Lafayette Field, Santa Clara, the Rockettes were defeated by a team from Alameda.

U. C. Men Winners Of Literary Awards

Two faculty members of the University of California at Los Angeles were medal winners in the 17th annual California literature awards of the Commonwealth Club of California, the club's Literature Award Jury has announced.

The medals are awarded each year by the Commonwealth Club for the "most worthy" books by California writers published in the previous year. Presentation of the awards was made by Justice Homer R. Spence, the club's president at ceremonies in San Francisco.

Winner of the gold medal in literature of scholarship and research was Dr. Louis B. Wright, visiting professor of English at U.C.L.A. and for the past 17 years a member of the Permanent Research Group at the Huntington Library, San Marino.

Dr. Wright's prizewinning book was his popular history, "The Atlantic Frontier."

Winner of a silver medal was Dr. Richard G. Lillard, assistant professor of English at U.C.L.A., whose book, "The Great Forest," won a prize in the unclassified division.

One hundred and twenty-eight books were entered in this year's competition. Awards have been made annually since 1931.

Candidate Speaks

Paul Taylor, Independent Progressive Party candidate for congress, and brother of Senator Glen Taylor, met voters of the Eighth District at an open house at IPP headquarters, 283 No. First street, San Jose, Wednesday evening, August 25, from 8 to 10 p.m. Transcriptions of speeches by Henry Wallace and Glen Taylor were played, as well as songs of the new Progressive party.

Mitch Lobrovich Voted Outstanding Player for Reno

"Mitch" Lobrovich, a Campbell boy who has won a big name in Western baseball, received another honor this week.

Mitch was voted the most outstanding player on the Reno Silver Sox team. Sparks, Nev., fans who gave him the title, also awarded him a handsome trophy to bring home with him when he begins his post-graduate study at San Jose State College next month.

Graduated by Campbell grammar and high schools and by Santa Clara University, he is now taking further training in physical education at SJSC.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Lobrovich, Latimer avenue. Mrs. Lobrovich and her daughter Claire have plane reservations for Reno Friday, to see Mitch play Friday night and to admire the trophy first hand.

Parsons Warns On State Resources

The present rate of population and industrial expansion of California cannot be permanently supported by the available natural resources of the state.

This is the warning of Dr. James Parsons, lecturer in geography on the Berkeley campus of the University of California, who recently concluded a study of the subject.

The population of the state as a whole increased 74 per cent during the period from 1929 to 1947, he pointed out. During the same period, Dr. Parsons states, factory jobs increased 66 per cent.

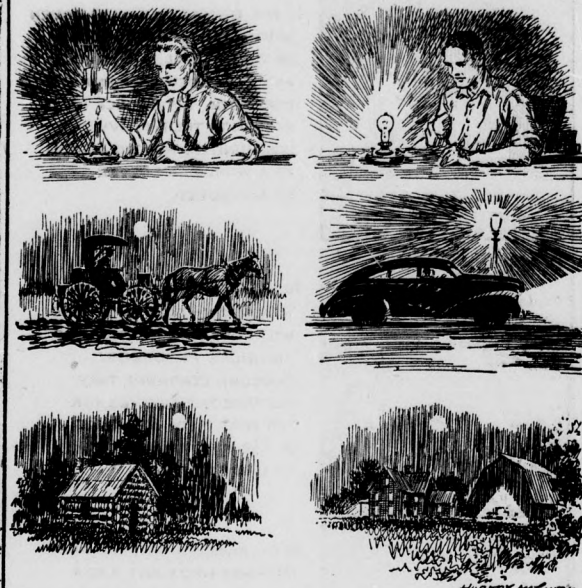

He pointed out that the Los Angeles area has outstripped the San Francisco Bay area as an industrial center for California. During the 1929-47 period, factory employment for the Bay Area increased only 32 per cent, while population showed a 45 per cent gain, as contrasted for the much higher gain for the state as a whole, the gain being accounted for largely by industrialization of the Los Angeles area.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Met

A GREAT NATIONAL RESOURCE

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE CAN COUNT THEIR 'URGE TO PROGRESS' AS A GREAT NATIONAL RESOURCE. THEIR REACHING AHEAD FOR BETTER THINGS HAS BEEN EVIDENT THROUGHOUT OUR HISTORY IN ALL PHASES OF AMERICAN LIFE—
FOR EXAMPLE, LIGHT—

THE TRANSLATION OF THIS 'URGE TO PROGRESS' INTO ACHIEVEMENT IS ILLUSTRATED BY THE LIGHT AND POWER INDUSTRY. THE CAPITAL NEEDED FOR ITS DEVELOPMENT HAS BEEN SUPPLIED BY THE AMERICAN PEOPLE, THROUGH THEIR VARIOUS FORMS OF SAVINGS. FROM THIS JOINING OF THRIFT AND VISION HAS COME THE DYNAMIC AMERICA WE KNOW TODAY—THE PROMISE OF EVEN GREATER GROWTH TOMORROW.

U. C. Man Describes State's Rainfall

The dry midwinter between a rainier early winter and spring which has characterized California weather during the past two years can be attributed to a persistent high pressure area over the Great Basin.

This is the opinion of Dr. ohn Leighly, professor of geography on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Dr. Leighly said this pressure area more often affects southern California than it does the central and northern parts of the state. It competes with cyclonic storms which usually favor heavy midwinter precipitation.

Dr. Leighly said that a survey of rainfall for the past 60 years shows that on the average 25 per cent of precipitation falls by December 16, 50 per cent by January 25, and 75 per cent by March 4. Thus half of the year's total falls, on the average, in the period of slightly more than two-and-a-half months between the middle of December and the first week in March.

Prehistoric Poo Got the Bird And Feathers and Vitamins, Too

500 Centuries Ago Fido Foraged For Himself

By TOM FARLEY

WHEN prehistoric man first bounced a club off his wife's jaw because she hadn't prepared the Brontosaurus steak to his liking, he probably tossed the indigestible dish to his prehistoric dog.

But Fido may or may not have eaten it. Because back in the days when a dinner guest was liable to wind up as the feature attraction of the second course, the dog was a pretty independent creature. Although he may have been willing to make a meal on whatever bits of six-tailed fish and ten-legged cat his master offered, he was completely capable of foraging for himself. His manner of choosing his food was simple: If he could catch it, kill it and chew it, he would eat it. And he did so, consuming his entire prey, fur, feathers, and all (that is if his master didn't happen upon the scene—in which case master got the bird and Fido, the feathers).

It wasn't until man's own eating habits changed that the dog had trouble with his victuals. After man learned to cook and grow and use vegetables and fruits, he passed these refinements on to his dog. But what was good for man wasn't necessarily good for the dog and the dog's diet soon began to lack many of the most essential items. In his wild state meat had been a basic part of the canine's fare. When he caught a small animal or bird he consumed it entirely. And since small animals and birds lived mostly on grains and berries and usually had a stomach full he got his cereal and fruit vitamins regularly.

But under the new system he didn't. As civilization progressed along the road to jet airplanes and atom bombs, the dog's opportunities to forage for natural foods was more and more restricted. The remnants of human meals just weren't enough. Mere table scraps failed to assure the balanced nutrition necessary to a dog's health. And the old idea of "my dog eats what I do" probably killed more dogs than distemper.

The history of dogs and men is long. For at least 500 centuries the two have lived together. As far back as the stone age there were already two breeds. A house pet variety descended from the jackal and a shepherd type sired by the wolf.

And in this long history the period during which man, through lack of knowledge, failed his pets was short—not over a few hundred years. For in the early days of the twentieth century he began to give attention to the diet of his "best friend."

At first, of course, this attention was largely on the part of kennel owners and breeders, for the mixing and blending of foods was a long and tedious job and was based on all too little knowledge.

Then big business became interested in dog feeding. Fido's food requirements became a whole field of research, supported primarily in the beginning by several large meat packing companies. Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent on study, experimentation and the accumulation of data, in veterinarians colleges and universities and in the research laboratories of the meat packing companies themselves. Different breeds of dogs were fed on specially prepared diets and their state of health carefully observed through generation after generation.

Man profited, too, for scientists delving into the feeding of dogs discovered a lot of things that were of great value to humans. For instance, in 1937 Dr. C. A. Elvehjem and his co-workers at the University of Wisconsin found that nicotinic acid was the specific vitamin concerned in pellagra, the human equivalent of the canine black-tongue disease.

As the cumulative effects of these research programs became felt prepared dog foods advanced rapidly toward providing the modern pup with every vitamin of which civilization had deprived him. The latest, and perhaps the greatest single step in this direction came in 1946 when the Department of Agriculture, feeling that it had sufficient information on which to base its specifications, announced it would certify dog foods meeting certain minimum requirements. Under the regulations for certification, any manufacturer of canned dog foods who meets the department's rigid requirements for quality and variety of ingredients, and submits to federal inspection is entitled to carry on his label a small key-shaped seal certifying that the product has been "inspected and certified by the Department of Agriculture as a normal maintenance dog food."

Of course, Rover hasn't gone back to the stone age. The new foods and new knowledge have done much more than put back the vitamins of which the dressing and cooking of foods had deprived him. They have made him a finer animal and have given him longer life. Breeders estimate that, like man, the life span of the dog is increasing every year.

The dog's natural instincts are becoming of less and less use to him. What with dodging cars, being kept on leash, and prohibited from barking, hunting and fighting, he is having to learn a whole new set of rules. By nature he'll still guard the home just as he maintained his "night-vigil" in the caves of Asia Minor. And he still turns round and round before he lays down to trample the grasses and check for enemies as he did in the forests of primeval Europe. But his instinct tells him nothing about living in our modern world. He is dependent on man for his food, his health and, ultimately his happiness.

Whatever guides thought spiritually benefits mind and body. — Mary Baker Eddy.

Government purchases of dried apricots last year amounted to approximately 6000 tons. Higher tonnage will be available this year, around one-half of which will come from this area.

The government's dried fruit buying program was designed to prevent "serious losses to producers in an industry which has almost completely lost its pre-war export markets," a USDA spokesman stated. Purchases are expected to be made out of the stabilization and surplus pool.

the bill was honestly contracted by the Chamber and should be paid whenever the Board of Directors felt they could do so.

Morton, however, insisted that the account be closed and marked paid. He maintained that he was in favor of building a stronger Chamber by the elimination of any factor tending to create criticism of past actions of the body. His summary dismissal of the account was finally accepted.

Other activities of the meeting were brief. A report on the Police Committee with withheld, pending approval of the next board meeting.
